Director of Resources

Mary Corinne (M.C.) Lowenstein began her career working with teens at the Med-O-Lark Fine Arts Camp in Maine. For three years she served as a counselor and then Program Director for over 720 youth. In 2001 she moved to MA and became a Residence Director at Simon's Rock College of Bard for younger scholars 16-20 years of age. There, M.C. facilitated various teen programs in the Student Life Department while assisting incoming freshman to adapt to college life. After three years, M.C. relocated to Tampa, FL where she developed and implemented the YouthALIVE! Program at the Children's Museum of Tampa. Her vast experience also includes temporary stints as Assistant Curator at the Kinsey Institute for Research and Sex, Gender and Reproduction and an internship at Indiana University Art Museum. Currently, M.C. is the Director of Resources with Adolescent Development Services, assisting various teen programs in the Tampa Bay area to increase capacity and maximize efficiency. M.C. received her degree in Community Education from Indiana University, is a certified Social Justice Mediator and is an avid traveler and photographer.
